Stephen Collins in his one man show,
"Sailing Towards My Father,"

Sailing Towards My Father is a one-man play about Herman Melville (1819-1891), the American author best known for his whaling epic Moby-Dick. The play chronicles Melville's life from youth to old age, concentrating on his evolution as a writer and his complex relations with God, his parents and siblings, his wife and children, and Nathaniel Hawthorne. Hawthorne was such a frequent guest of Melville's that he had his own small bedroom off Melville's study.
