The Friends of the Marlborough Public Library invite you to an evening with author David Hanrahan.

David Hanrahan's first book introduces fictional persona Bill Coine, a retired Massachusetts State Police Detective Lieutenant, who's lured out of retirement to investigate and solve a case. Or does he? What follows is an exciting and suspenseful ride with clever twists and turns, and a surprise conclusion.

After a beloved local bookie is found dead at a crash site, a hit man turns up dead in a cemetery near a Boston courthouse and a lawyer goes under-ground to protect his own neck. It's not only a classic whodunit case, but why. Will Bill Coine's eye for detail be the catalyst which proves that, sometimes, the most obvious suspects aren't necessarily the ones that make the most sense? A prequel to Downsizing, Deadly Recollection is Coine's last case as a State cop.

David graduated from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn with a Bachelor's Degree in Industrial Design in 1958. He received the Organization of the Army medal and was designated a Distinguished Military Graduate. While in the Army, Hanrahan graduated from the Airborne School at Fort Benning, GA and the Jungle Warfare School in Fort Sherman, Panama Canal Zone. In 1962, while stationed in the Panama Canal Zone, he was honored by the people of a small Panamanian town for helping them achieve their dream of a new school. The inauguration of the "Lieutenant David G. Hanrahan School.- Amistad -Panama -Estados Unidos" was attended by the President of Panama, the American Ambassador to Panama and the senior army staff. After 5 years in the United States Army, attaining the rank of Captain, he attended Boston University Law School where he received his Juris Doctor Degree in 1966. He served on the Boston University Law Review where he was elected to the position of Note Editor.

Married with two young children while attending law school full time, Hanrahan worked as a reporter for the Quincy Patriot Ledger. He spent one year as an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board in Washington, D.C. before returning to Boston to begin his career as a Boston trial lawyer. Hanrahan, a distinguished trial attorney, is a member of the Boston and Massachusetts Bar Associations and is a fellow in the American College of Trial Lawyers.

This program will be held in the Bigelow Auditorium of the Marlborough Public Library. It is free and open to the Public. Please join us for an entertaining and informative evening.
